Dear Winfred,

Yes, I believe that Major James Poe was the same as Captain Poe. He would have to be Captain before he could be a Major. Probably he was a Major at the close of the ~~Civil~~ Rev. War and would be called by his final level; wouldn't he?

Bertha Byrd gave me a list of the Warren & Millie Walters Holiman children; she could supply you with that. He had a son named Jesse but this was not my ancestor for he married an Ashcraft and raised a large family at Prattsville. My James Jesse Holiman Great grand father died in Alabama Dec 25, 1853. This was before Granddad J. Jesse was born. This is from a Bible record.

I have the published diary of Major James Thomas Poe. It has a picture of him from a print of a Texas descendent.

The Poe cemetery near Newtonville has been "destroyed" I was told but I want to search more someday.

Sincerely,
Chester

I found my list —

Warren Holiman & Millie Walters
Anson County, North Carolina

both Jacobs
Cemetery

Children (Bertha gave these):

Tillman H. Holiman

Full Cemetery

Joshua Holiman

Elijah Holiman

John Holiman

Jesse Holiman

Suzanna Holiman

Barbara Brumbelow

Mary M. Reynolds

Jacobs Cemetery

Nancy Jane Dungan

Jacobs Cemetery

Maybe you can help me get a list of Warren Holiman's brothers. I believe Warren and James Jesse (my Great grandfather) were brothers or maybe James Jesse was a nephew of Warren.
